Re: Virginia Freedom of Information Request
Ref: Edmund Langevin, III

Mr. Pardo:

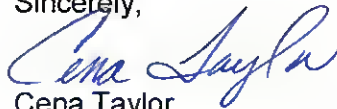

Thank you for supplying me with your Virginia address information that was sent in your recent email response. This letter serves to respond to that request from the Chesapeake Police Department.

As with criminal investigative records, 911 recordings that are associated with a criminal incident, are wholly protected under the law and if existent, held in any case files. The records you are requesting are criminal (Malicious Wounding) in nature and as such, exempt from release. Even after a criminal case is closed, there is no requirement for release of criminal investigations information. FOIA leaves that decision within the sole purview of the law enforcement agency. Chesapeake Police Department exercises this discretion and does not release criminal records once a case is closed. These denials are in accordance with the following state codes:

- Section 2.2-3706 (F) (1) of the Code of Virginia – complaints, correspondence, case files or reports, witness statements, and evidence related to a criminal investigation or prosecution are exempt from disclosure.
- Section 2.2-3706 (G) (1) of the Code of Virginia, all portions of this record containing identifying information of a personal, medical or financial nature of another party have been redacted.

If I can be of further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Cena Taylor
Central Records Supervisor
